COURT HOUSE ROOM FLOODED

A seam in a water pipe in the second floor of the court house opened over the week-end and flooded the office of the county treasurer beneath. Water flowed down the outside of the pipe and seeped through the ceiling of the office, soaking everything that was exposed. Important count records were undamaged in an office safe and vault, but books, papers and other articles on desk tops were ruined.

County Treasurer William I. Shields and his deputy, Ray J. Kitzmiller, were forced to vacate their corner of the court house and do business this morning in the county commissioners' section of the large joint office room.

A plumber repaired the break in the pipe and soaked books and papers were spread out to dry.

John Bowers, janitor at the court house, said he noticed nothing amiss when he visited the offices in the county building Sunday evening about 7 o'clock.

Countian Arrested For York Officers

Russell Matthews, Mt. Pleasant township, was arrested this morning about 2 o'clock at his home by Sheriff B. W. Spence, Corporal H. W. Buckbee of the state police and Constable Horace L. Bender. 2 Cars Damaged in Buford Ave. Crash

Two cars were damaged but no one injured when machines collided about 5:45 o'clock Sunday evening on Buford avenue at Butt's service station. Merle Seacrist, Harrisburg, is reported to have been driving east on the avenue when John E. Frantz, Baltimore, drove away from the gasoline station and caught the rear of the Seacrist car with his front bumper.

The accident was investigated by Borough Officer Lloyd E. Wisler. No charges were laid after Frantz had posted a $30 bond before a local justice of the peace to cover damages to the Harrisburg machine. Total damage amounted to nearly $40.

ALL VOTERS WHO REGISTER MAY SIGN PETITIONS

Candidates for party nominations for county treasurer and a few aspirants for township and borough offices who began circulation of nominating petitions Saturday, admitted today they had not limited their solicitation of signatures to those persons who had registered last Thursday, when it was pointed out that only registered voters are legally qualified to sign the papers.

Most of the candidates are circulating a number of petitions and it is felt that if some signatures are challenged, there will remain more than the necessary 100 on county treasurer papers and 10 on papers of those seeking municipal offices.

A news dispatch from Harrisburg states: Persons circulating petitions to have candidates' names placed upon primary election ballots will be wise to ascertain whether the petition signers have been registered under the new permanent registration laws, if they do not wish to have objections filed against the petitions.

Saturday was the first day upon which petitions could be circulated for signatures. The affidavit on the back of each petition requires an oath that "signers are qualified, registered and enrolled electors."

Maryland Driver Is Charged as Reckless

A charge of reckless driving was laid against William R. Sell, 16, Taneytown, Maryland, before justice of the Peace Howard G. Blocher, Littlestown, following a collision on the Littlestown-Harney road Sunday evening at 5:45 o'clock.

The information was laid by Highway Patrolman C. E. Waltemyer of the local substation. The defendant posted bond for hearing.

Sell is alleged to have entered the main road from a dirt road without stopping and collided with a machine operated by Robert L. Strickhouser, 29, Taneytown R. 1. No one was injured.

ROMIG IN SOCIAL SECURITY POST

The Philadelphia regional office of the Social Security board has announced the appointment of Edwin B. Romig, of McKnightstown, as the permanent manager of the Harrisburg field office.

When the Harrisburg office was opened last April, the training of the personnel for field service work had not been completed and so it was necessary temporarily to place in charge as acting manager, Harry W. Pease, who has been transferred to the Philadelphia regional office.

Romig comes to the staff of the Social Security board from the Pennsylvania State emergency relief administration, where for the last two years he was executive director of the Berks County district.

Before that he was executive director of Area 4 of the State emergency relief administration with headquarters at Chambersburg. He was clothing buyer for the relief administration from January 1, 1934, until the purchase of clothing for relief purposes was discontinued.

The Harrisburg field office manager was born and reared in Reading and became affiliated with the State Relief administration in 1934 after 14 years of business experience in Chicago and Philadelphia.

'I'm Not Here to Answer Questions'

Handcuffed to another prisoner, Robert Irwin (right), accused of the triple Easter killings in New York, is shown as he appeared at a Chicago police line-up after his surrender. "I'm not here to answer questions, if you'll pardon me," he told police.

Robert Irwin Held Without Bail for 3 Easter Slayings

New York, June 28 (AP).—Robert Irwin, debonair one-time divinity student turned sculptor, was held without bail today in two brief court appearances and hired a well-known criminal lawyer to defend him against charges of the triple slaying on Beekman Hill Easter Sunday.

Samuel Leibowitz, who has defended 123 persons in first degree murder trials without a client going to the electric chair, announced the eccentric young man had retained him as counsel and immediately won a postponement of arraignment until June 30.

Irwin, held for the "manual strangulation" of beautiful Veronica Gedeon, artist's model, and her mother, and the ice pick slaying of a roomer in the Gedeon home, was before Magistrate Brough in Homicide court barely half a minute.

A short while previously, he had appeared in police lineup—outwardly calm—for only a minute.

To Seek 3 Murder Indictments

New York, June 28 (AP).—A path to the electric chair was charted today for moody, eccentric Robert Irwin, long-sought youthful sculptor, as the law pushed toward a sudden, smashing solution of the Easter Sunday triple murders on Beekman Hill.

Although the 28-year-old artist formerly was an inmate of an insan asylum, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine and District At-

15,500 RESUME OHIO STEEL JOBS

Youngstown, O., June 28 (AP).—Major General Gilson D. Light of the Ohio National Guard said today approximately 15,500 men were back at work in the strike-sieged steel plants in Youngstown.

As the strike called against four independent steel companies entered its thirty-third day, back-to-work movements were launched all along its Ohio-Pennsylvania front.

The steel workers organizing committee, CIO affiliate, called out workers of Republic Steel corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Bethlehem Steel's Cambria plant at Johnstown, and the Inland Steel company, after the concerns had refused to sign labor contracts with the SWOC.

CIO leaders, discounting claims of employers as to the number of men returning, declared the figures should be "discounted 50 per cent" and added "we have just begun to fight."

General Light, whose Ohio guardsmen, under order of Governor Martin L. Davey, are policing the back-to-work movement in the Mahoning valley, said 11,308 men entered Youngstown plants today and 4,299 Sunday night.

At Sheet and Tube's Campbell plant, normally employing 10,000, he said 5,852 entered today and 1,525 Sunday night.

At the Brier Hill plant of Sheet and Tube, the guard officer estimated 1,886 came through the gates today and 574 Sunday night.

Republic's "stop 5" plant, which ordinarily has 6,000 employes, saw 3,270 men go to work today and 2,200 Sunday night, said Light. In addition, about 300 men entered Republic's Bessemer plant in Youngs-

GERMANY WANTS SPANISH ORES

(By The Associated Press)

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's declaration of two German policies in Spain today clouded a new optimism that the Spanish Civil war might be isolated from the rest of Europe.

Der Fuehrer told a party rally of 200,000 Nazis that the Third Reich "would welcome" an Insurgent Spanish regime as an aid to solving Germany's acute raw material shortage.

He also declared Germany would act independently henceforth to protect herself against Spanish Government attacks at sea.

At Valencia, the Spanish central government reported a marchantman sunk by a submarine and created a special anti-submarine fleet.

In Paris and Moscow it was feared the last repercussions of the joint Italo-German withdrawal from the neutrality fleet had not yet been felt.

The absence of new developments stimulated hope elsewhere, however, that Europe's peace was not endangered.

A stretch of about 30 miles of government coast north of Valencia was shelled from the sea. One report, which was not confirmed, said German troops participated.

Insurgent troops reinforced Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Ma-

STALLSMITH TO SEEK OFFICE OF BURGESS AGAIN

Wilbur J. Stallsmith, East Middle street, serving his fourth year as burgess of Gettysburg, made formal announcement today of his intention to campaign for re-election for a second consecutive term as burgess.

Burgess Stallsmith is circulating petitions to have his name placed on the Republican party ticket at the primary election, September 14. He is the first candidate to announce for the office from either party.

The announcement of Burgess Stallsmith this morning was the first to be made by any borough or school district official whose term expires with the end of the year. Voters of the town have not yet learned publicly from Tax Collector H. H. Thomas or members of the borough council and school board, who are serving the last year of their present terms, whether they will seek re-election.

Members of the borough council who will retire from office December 31, unless they seek and win re-election, are William E. Biddle, of the first ward; Charles T. Jacobs of the second, and Fred G. Pfeffer of the third ward.

All head important committees on council at the present time. Biddle is head of the highway department; Jacobs heads the health committee, and Pfeffer is chairman of the newly-formed public utility committee.

Pfeffer has been quoted as saying he will not be a candidate for council this fall, but friends in his ward and other sections of town have announced their intention of persuading him to be a candidate.

Mahlon P. Hartzel, secretary of the Gettysburg school board, and Charles B. Dougherty end their present terms as directors this year, but have made no announcement of their attitudes on a campaign for re-election.

Other boroughs in the county will elect burgesses, members of borough councils and in most cases two school directors.

All boroughs and townships will choose assessors for two-year terms and school directors. While boroughs elect councilmen, the townships will vote on road supervisors for six-year terms. Tax collectors will be chosen and judges and inspectors of election will be named in the various districts.

A few candidates for borough and township offices already have secured their nominating petitions at the commissioners' office.

COST OF RELIEF UNDER MILLION

For the first time since December 19, 1936, Pennsylvania expenditures for direct relief, exclusive of administration and special programs, dropped below the million dollar mark. During the week ending June 19, expenditures totalled $998,682.20—a decrease of $12,804.40 from the previous week.

A total of 138,375 cases, containing 416,243 persons, remained on the rolls as of June 19. The net decrease of 1,367 cases (3,618 persons) during the week was the smallest reported for any week since the early part of April.

The net change in the relief load in Adams county was eight cases, due to the closing of 10 cases and the opening of two. Nine applications for relief were received. The 90 cases on relief at the end of the week of June 19 represented 416 persons and an expenditure of $709.

Straley, New Oxford. The drivers were David O. Harget, 736 Poplar street, and William D. Hamme, 346 West North street, both of York.

Miss Elizabeth Happel, technician at the Annie M. Warner hospital, spent the week-end in Philadelphia.

$1,600 Received at Firemen's Bazaar

A total of $1,600.29 was realized by the Gettysburg fire company at its annual festival which closed Saturday evening. According to D. C. Stallsmith, chairman of the committee in charge, this figure is slightly less than that of a year ago although several cash donations which have not yet been received may make the final total slightly higher.

The festival opened last Wednesday was continued each evening the remainder of the week. Music was furnishd each night by the Blue and Gray band.

RESERVE OFFICERS ON TOUR

About 40 reserve corps officers from Maryland and Washington, D. C., came to Gettysburg Sunday to tour the battlefield with a park police escort and an explanation of the battle by Dr. Frederick Tilberg, assistant historian at the national park office here. The group dined at the Hotel Gettysburg at noon.

KEEFER BARN IN M'KNIGHTSTOWN BURNS; LOSS IS PLACED AT $1000

The combination barn and garage, a two-story frame building, on the property of A. C. Keefer, McKnightstown, was almost completely destroyed by fire late this morning with a loss that approached $1,000.

Mr. Keefer carried a small amount of insurance on the building, but a 1929 model coupe that burned in the structure was not insured.

The flames were discovered about 10:30 o'clock by Mrs. George Plank, a neighbor. At that time they were confined to the automobile and a section of the barn immediately above the parked machine.

It is believed that a short circuit in the wiring of the automobile may have been the cause of the blaze. The car had been placed in the barn about an hour earler in the morning by Mr. Keefer, who had used it on a business trip. Later he passed the barn, but noticed no smoke or flames.

Although a hog pen which stood about four feet from the flaming barn and a chicken house only about 10 feet distant caught fire, they were saved through the efforts of members of the Cashtown fire company who responded to an alarm turned in from McKnightstown. A section of roof was burned off the hog pen and flames had licked at the sides of the hen house, but both structures were saved.

The automobile, a quantity of hay, several pieces of farm machinery and a small amount of corn in the barn were destroyed.

The firemen exhausted the water supplies in cisterns on the Keefer, George Plank and Clarence Deardorff properties while fighting the flames.

Buildings on neighboring properties that stood close to the Keefer barn did not catch fire.

Members of the Cashtown fire company remained on the scene until early this afternoon.

TO STOP ISSUING SECURITY CARDS

Postmaster C. A. Williams announced today that he has been informed by postal bulletins from Washington, D. C., that all postmasters will cease to issue social security account number cards after June 30, although a supply of the application forms SS-4 and SS-5 will be kept on hand here.

Beginning July 1, all applications for account numbers will have to be sent to the field office of the social security board which will be located in the Calder building, 16 North Second street, Harrisburg. Typing activities and record work also will be taken over by the field office and all inquiries will be referred there after this month.

Postage will be requried on application forms that are mailed to the field office. The local postmaster pointed out that persons who secure their applications this month at the local postoffice will save postage charges and the inconvenience of waiting for the issuance of the cards at Harrisburg. Applications that are pending at the end of the month will have to be sent to Harrisburg for the issuance of the cards.

Since the issuing of social security account numbers began here on November 15, 1936, about 3,000 numbers have been assigned to persons employed in industry and commerce in this section. Many others lack account numbers, the postmaster stated.

Rev. Crane Traces History Of Foreign Missionaries

"They, too, Were Pioneers," was the theme of the sermon delivered Sunday morning by the Rev. Frederick B. Crane, pastor of the Presbyterian church. His text was taken from Jonah 3:3: "So Jonah arose, and went into Ninevah according to the word of the Lord."

The sermon, in part, follows:

"One of the first foreign missionaries of whom the Scriptures have any record was Jonah. He is one of a long succession of those who have carried the message of God's mercy and redeeming love to heathen people.

"During the last century, concluded this year with the centennial celebration of the organization of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, men and women have gone out to sin-darkened lands with the gospel of Christ, the Redeemer. At the beginning of the century men were questioning the survival of Christianity, but by 1929 there were 30,000 Protestant missionaries in foreign lands supported with their stations at the cost of sixty million dollars a year.

Organized in 1837

"Our foreign board was established at the meeting of the General Assembly in Philadelphia in 1837, and the same year the board was organized in Baltimore with Walter Lowrie as its first secretary. Mr. Lowrie was considered by the statesmen of his day to be an authority on all questions of political history and constitutional law. He

EARHART READY FOR 1,550-MILE HOP OVER OCEAN

Port Darwin, Australia, June 28 (AP).—Amelia Earhart made ready today for the "worst section" of her globe-girdling flight.

"It's been a very interesting flight," said the American flier after setting her silver monoplane down in northern Australia at 11:28 a. m. (8:58 p. m. EST Sunday), ending a hop from Koepang in the Dutch East Indies.

"But for slight mechanical trouble which was remedied at Bandoeng, Java, we have experienced no hold-ups. We've been sitting down waiting for Australia to turn up and we'll push on to Lae, New Guinea, tomorrow morning," she explained.

"I'm not taking any risks but am flying as fast as possible. From Lae to Howland island will be the worst section of the flight, but with Freddy Noonon navigating I'm confident we'll make it."

(Noonan is Miss Earhart's navigator on the world trip.)

The 1,550-mile hop from Lae will take the American flier across a vast stretch of the southern Pacific, out of sight of land except for a scattering of small islands. Her destination is Howland island, tiny American possession. From Howland she plans to fly to Hawaii and thence to Oakland, California.

drid siege lines in the Casa De Campo sector west of the capital and in the Jarama sector to the southwest.

New defense troops bolstered those zones but government commanders said they did not expect a new general attack from Franco until Insurgent operations on the Santander-Bilbao front were completed.

Berlin, June 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler applauded today while Nazi Germany, through her highest apostles of economcs, made known to the international Chamber of Commerce her demand for a share in the the world's raw materials and its trade.

Colonel General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, virtual dictator of Germany's four-year plan for self sufficiency, and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, economic minister, spoke out to the 1,500 delegates from 40 countries to seek a German place in the economic sun—and the return of warlost colonies.

Der Fuehrer led the applause from the President's box.

He sat flanked by Goering and by the I. C. C. 's world president, F. H. Fentener Van Vlissingen, of The Netherlands.

Curious eyes from all over the world, including the United States, were on Der Fuehrer as he gave a snappy Nazi salute and seated himself. Nazi uniforms dotted the ranks of his followers.

Only Sunday night, at Wurzburg, Hitler had his own say on the Reich's shortage of raw materials. Then he said Germany would welcome an Insurgent victory in Spain because, "as it is generally known, we try to buy ores everywhere." Spain is rich in the minerals that Germany needs.

It was Goering who sounded the Nazi colony keynote, with the declaration "You may be sure Germany will continue to bring up the colonial problem until her urgent and legitimate desires regarding colonies are fulfilled."

ELECTRIC RATES ARE COMPARED

Washington, June 28 (AP).—Reading was listed in a federal power commission report Sunday among communities paying the highest rates for residential electric service.

Based on typical bills for 25 kilowatt-hours as of January 1, 1936, the report said Reading's ranking was 96th out of 101 communities of 100,000 population and over throughout the United States.

Reading typical bill was $2.12, compared with 98 cents in Washington, D. C., which ranked second, and $2.76 at Miami, Florida, the highest. Part of Cleveland, served by a municipal plant, paid 83 cents, the lowest.

Pittsburgh ranked lowest among Pennsylvania communities and was 15th in the nation with a typical bill of $1.25. Philadelphia was second in Pennsylvania and 52nd in the nation, paying $1.50

Other rankings and bills: Allentown, Bethlehem, Lancaster and Wilkes-Barre, 80th, $1.91; York, 90th, $1.95; Johnstown, 96th, $2.07.

STOCK REPORT

New York, June 28 (AP).—Led by rails, the stock market turned about today and dropped fractions to a point after an early advance. Selling of carriers was prompted, brokers said, by Wall Street disappointment over earnings in May despite gains in gross.

Rev. Crane Traces History Of Foreign Missionaries

was serving as secretary of the United States Senate at the time of his call to the secretariate of our foreign board, and willingly left that lucrative position of national prominence and responsibility to serve the church.

"So devoted was he to the foreign missionary enterprise that he also gave three sons to it, one to India, and two to China, where one was martyred. Seized by pirates on his way from Shanghai to Ningpo after only a few years of service, the Rev. Walter Lowrie, this martyred son, was thrown into the sea to drown. Those were pioneer days when they who went out according to the Word of the Lord, went at the risk of their lives.

Face Hardships

"Our work began in Africa and in those days the journey meant four and a half months of sailing with salt pork, wormy sea biscuits, rancid butter, and tepid water as food and drink. Nevertheless the indomitable spirit of these pioneers did not falter. In Africa the missionaries found no written language, and faced the major obstacles of disease and climate. Within five months three had died, and the fourth, a negro, had withdrawn. Reinforcements were recruited, however, and soon a church and presbytery had been organized.

"About the same time work was begun in India, where the intense heat took heavy toll of life. The Rev. John C. Lowrie was finally driven home by ill health and took the place of his devoted father as our board secretary. Then came the Indian mutiny of 1857 when 1,500 were put to death. This number included thirty-seven missionaries, of whom eight were Presbyterians.

"The spirit of sacrificial devotion was the genius of the early days of the foreign missionary enterprise. Joining the people of other denominations our missionaries pressed on, determined that God's love should be made known to every race and people. The records of their ventures and achievements, their sufferings, deaths and victories thrill the heart of every follower of Jesus Christ.

Successful Outcome

"Beginning the work in a depression period when men despaired of the very life of Christianity, our church has come through the present depression with 1,300 missionaries, and 8,000 native workers in 156 stations and 2,500 outstations in 16 foreign lands.

"The cycle of the century has been completed. These pioneers have written a record well. We read it and rejoice in the achievements of those brave men and women of God. Now we face the future and the world to conquer for Christ. We are the heirs of a great past and a great responsibility, and as we join the church in this centennial commemoration it is for us to answer the question, what shall the record of the second century be?"

torney William C. Dodge announced today they would ask the grand jury for three indictments for first degree murder in the slayings of Veronica Gedeon, young artists' model, her mother, and a male roomer.

A defendant must be adjudged sane to be convicted of murder in the first degree for which the penalty is death in the electric chair.

Irwin was arrested in Chicago Sunday, more than 12 hours after he had surrendered in the offices of the Herald and Examiner, Chicago newspaper. He was brought here by airplane Sunday night by New York detectives. He waived extradition.

The grand jury, Valentine and Dodge said in a joint statement, would be given a detailed statement which Irwin dictated to the Herald and Examiner, confessing all three murders, as well as additional statements they said he made to Chicago and New York police.

All three slayings were "accidental," Irwin is quoted as saying in the Chicago statement, since he went to the Gedeon apartment intending to murder the beautiful "Ronnie's" sister, Mrs. Ethel Kudner, and no one else.

The young sculptor said he would be saved from the electric chair because he had spent several years in what he called "the nut house."

While the indictment request was to be presented at "the earliest possible moment," Irwin was guarded continually by three policemen, to prevent him taking his own life.

The confession made to the Chicago newspaper apparently was accepted by the New York police, for Valentine and Dodge said.

"He (Irwin) further stated that the statement which he made to the newspaper in Chicago was revised and corrected by him, and signed by him, and that that statement was a correct statement."

Dodge announced Irwin had "made a complete confession," but added it was "not signed."

During the morning a man described by Dodge as Doctor Werthen, Bellevue hospital psychiatrist, called at headquarters and talked with Irwin at the sculptor's request.

"Doctor Werthen is a friend of the defendant, and the defendant is a friend of his," said Dodge.

The wheels of justice turned speedily from his arrest soon after noon Sunday.

Despite a wide distribution of circulars for his apprehension, Irwin had worked unnoticed in a Cleveland hotel from April 8, a few days after the murders on March 27, until last Thursday. A kitchen maid then recognized his picture in a detective magazine, asked him about his identity, and he fled.

He arrived in Chicago at 7:30 a. m. Saturday, roamed the streets, attended a movie, and then, later in the day, leisurely walked into the newspaper office. Full details of what happened between then and his arrest Sunday afternoon were not made public.

With the arrest, Irwin, turning from nonchalance to gloominess, from blitheness to surliness, was hurried through routine moves in Chicago and brought here by New York detectives.

His face almost expressionless and nattily attired in a white linen suit, Irwin was rushed from Floyd Bennett airport to police headquarters in a motor caravan of screaming sirens.

Leading investigators of the three-month-old murders questioned him on the amazingly frank story he gave the Chicago newspaper, of how the murders were committed singly through a period of many hours, of how "Ronnie," the 20-year-old model, might have lived if she had not recognized her assailant, and of how the mother, Mary, 54, struggled furiously against death.

Irwin, a minister's son and one-time student of theology, as related in the newspaper statement, went to the Gedeon apartment to murder Mrs. Kudner.

"I wanted to kill Ethel because she was the dearest object in the world to me. I loved her and I hated her. I dreamed of modelling her as if beheaded, with her head far back and the month open. . ."

The motive intertwined with Irwin's peculiar philosophy of life, was recorded by the newspaper in this way:

"The one driving impulse of a man's life was sex. I figured that if I could remove sexual impulse and put myself under pressure, that I could solve that problem.

Ordered to Leave Apartment ....

"All the time I knew there was only one way out of it, by murdering somebody. If I were to do something like that I would put myself on a spiritual plane and make everything even.

"I have nothing against anybody. . . ."

Irwin was welcomed by Mrs. Gedeon, who was in the apartment alone. After they chatted for hours, and he drew sketches of her, she ordered him to leave. He refused, they fought, and eventually he strangled her, according to the statement.

Then a wait for Ethel, but "Ronnie" came instead, alone. She didn't see him. He crept up behind her, grabbed her throat. He didn't want to kill her.

"I was very careful not to press too hard—just hard enough so she couldn't make a noise, but could breathe. I think I held her that way at least an hour. . . I thought she didn't know who I was. But she did. And what cost her life was that she said so. . . She knew me, I didn't know what to do. I didn't want to murder the whole neighborhood. I wanted to let Ronnie live if I could.

"She was beautiful. I hate to destroy beauty. . . I began to think that, with Ronnie knowing me as she did, I didn't have any alternative. I strangled her."

All this time the roomer, Frank Byrnes, a club waiter, was asleep in the next room. He had seen Irwin enter. The statement told of plunging an ice pick into the side of his skull.

Calls Irwin Sane

Another wait, this time for Ethel. She failed to appear. Irwin walked out into the Easter dawn, calm with death behind him.

Thoughts of what society might do for such a crime were expressed in this way:

"When I went there that night I thought that after killing Ethel, then they will kill me in the electric chair, but I didn't care. Then I said to myself that after being in the nut house all of your life, you can't go to the chair. You might, but the chances are that you won't. They'll put me in a nut house again and then I'll be there all the rest of my life and catch up with myself, in a spiritual way."

However, Dr. Russel E. Blaisdell, psychiatrist of international reputation and superintendent of Rockland State hospital, where Irwin once was an inmate, said Irwin was legally sane, beyond all question, if the published statements of the artist were accurate.

Thoroughly familiar with Irwin's case, Doctor Blaisdell pointed out that the legal definition of insanity, which is a man's capacity to recognize right from wrong, was considered meaningly by psychiatrists.

Irwin is suffering from a psychosis, he said, but added that at least 2,000 of his 5,000 Rockland hospital patients were suffering from psychoses, but were legally sane.

Gettysburg Bests Fairfield In Well Played Game, 6-3; Cashtown Bows to Midway

In one of the best games of the season the Gettysburg furniture company nine staged a three-run rally in the eighth inning to defeat Fairfield here Saturday afternoon in an Adams county league game, 6-3.

Johnny Slaybaugh spotted the visitors three runs in the first frame and then blanked his opponents with four hits during the remainder of the tilt.

The locals tied the score at three-all in the seventh when Stahle was hit by a pitched ball, was sacrificed to second from where he scored on Hankey's single. Bud Knox opened the eighth with his third straight hit, a triple. Johnson's single scored Knox and after K. Knox flied to left McSherry got a homerun when his drive became lost in the deep grass, Johnson scoring in front of him.

Cashtown gave the league-leading Midway aggregation a merry battle for seven innings but wilted in the eighth and ninth to lose 7-4. A homerun by Charley Miller in the eighth with one on broke up a 3-3 tie, Midway adding two unnecessary runs in the ninth. "Ducky" Coffman started for Midway but was forced out of action in the sixth Weaver finishing. Coffman caught for the victors. Shindledecker hurled the entire game for Cashtown with P. Bream receiving.

Nine runs in the nirth inning gave Bendersville a 12-4 decision over Bonneauville at Bonneauville. Until the wild last inning the game was hotly contested with Bendersville leading 3-1. HUBBELL-DEAN RIVALRY PACKS ST. LOUIS PARK

(By The Associated Press)

You couldn't blame Major league magnates if tney peeked under second base or back of the scoreboard or some such place today in the hope of digging up a rivalry to match the Carl Hubbell-Dizzy Dean duel.

For, win, lose or draw between the Giants' southpaw ace and the Cardinals' great popper-offer, any time those two go to the post against each other, they pack 'em in to the rafters.

To the moguls, it didn't matter so much that Hubbell topped Diz like a tent Sunday to take an 8-1 decision in the latest renewal of their pitching rivalry. What was more interesting to the front offices, was the fact that 38,719 fans made it look like world series day in Sportsman's park.

That crowd, added to the full houses that saw their two previous tussles, made it more than 120,000 who have turned out for the three Dean-Hubbell clashes this year.

And while the various other magnates consider ways of giving a shot in the arm to some such drawing card on their own behalf, it might be well to recall at this time that a lot of "experting" faces are plenty red these days over the Hubbell progress. "Old Square-pants," after winning 24 straight, bogged down badly recently, dropped four in a row and was belted out six times running.

Immediately after the wolves were heard, and when Bill Terry continued sending him back time after time, there were any number of yelps that what Hubbell needed was lots of rest, not more work. But Terry and King Carl stuck to their guns, and Hubbell, never missing his regular turn, snapped back to form.

Sunday's win, in which he allowed but six hits, fanned six and did not walk a man, was his second straight. Achieved with the aid of two homers by Mel Ott, the win sent the Giants and Cards into a vitrual tie for second place in the National League. Dean allowed 10 hits.

As the eastern teams headed home tiday, the Giants and the Cards were only half a game back of the league-leading Cubs, who were soundly whipped by Breeklyn pitching in both ends of a doubleheader. Van Mungo fanned six to take the opener 8-3, and Rookie Luke Hamlin hurled a three-hitter for a 6-3 nightcap decision.

The Yankees, winding up a highly successful home stand with nine victories against three defeats, trampled the Tigers 9-5 as George Selkirk clouted his 16th homer. The defeat dropped the Tigers into the American League third place, since the White Sox won their sixth straight by stopping the Senators 5-3, to return to second.

The Athletics climbed out of the cellar by splitting with Cleveland's hapless Indians, 10-0 and 7-2. Beaten twice by Boston's hot Red Sox, 8-0 and 11-7, the St. Louis Browns nose-dived back into last place.

The Bees turned the tables on the Cincinnati Reds with a twin win, 8-2 and 10-5, and the Pirates nosed out the Phillies, 4-3.

Bill Terry Picks Team For All-Star Game July 7

New York, June 28 (AP)—The All-Star squad with which the National League hopes to make it two straight over the American League at Washington, July 7, was announced today by Bill Terry, boss of the hand-picked forces as a result of leading his Giants to a pennant last year.

The squad of 22 players, selected by Terry after consultation with rival strategists, includes all the headliners and represents every league club but the Boston Bees.

Terry's own team tops the list with six delegates to the big show. The Chicago Cubs contribute five, the St. Louis Cardinals four, and the Pittsburgh Pirates three players.

The seven infielders named do not include a regular third baseman. Terry hasn't committed himself definitely yet, but the chances are he will assign the slugging Pirate shortstop, Arky Vaughan, to third base in the starting lineup, with Dick Bartell at short.

Dizzy Dean and Carl Hubbell, quite naturally, top the hurling staff. Each has appeared in three of the four previous All-Star games. Hubbell was the hero in 1934, although the Nationals lost the game after he left the box. Dean was credited with the league's first victory, last year at Boston.

Van Mungo, who has worked in one previous game, and three newcomers round out the pitching staff. Pittsburgh's Darrell (Cy) Blanton is the most likely "freshman" to see action.

Leo (Gabby) Hartnett of the Cubs is the only "four-star" nomination. He has been behind the bat in every All-Star game and probably will start this one.

There's not much doubt that Johnny Mize, of the Cardinals, another freshman selection, will start at first base, with Billy Herman, of the Cubs, in the keystone spot, for the fourth straight year. The starting outfield figures to consist of Joe (Muscles) Medwick, Frank Demarre and Paul Waner.

Terry named two managerial rivals, Frank Frisch, of the Cardinals, and Charlie Dressen, of the Reds, as coaches. A new assignment, honorary coach, goes to Jesse Haines, dean of the National League pitchers.

Of the previous "three-timers" in the All-Star game, only two are missing, Wally Berger, now with the Giants, and Lon Warneke, Cardinals' right hander.

Here are Terry's selections, with years of previous All-Star competitive appearances given in brackets:

Pitchers—Dizzy Dean, Cardinals, (34-35-36); Carl Hubbell, Giants, (34-35-36); Van Lingle Mungo, Dodgers, (34); Cy Blanton, Pirates; Bucky Walters, Phillies, and Lee Grissom, Reds.

Catchers — Leo Hartnett, Cubs, (33-34-35-36); Gus Mancuso, Giants, (35), and Ernie Lombardi, Reds.

Infielders—Johnny Mize, Cardinals; Jimmy Collins, Cubs, (35-36); Billy Herman, Cubs, (34-35-36); Billy Judges, Cubs; Arky Vaughan, Pirates, (34-35); Dick Bartell, Giants (33); Burgess Whitehead, Giants (35).

Outfielders—Joe Medwick, Cardinals (34-35-36); Frank Demaree, Cubs (36); Paul Waner, Pirates, (33-34-35); Pepper Martin, Cardinals (33-34-35); Mel Ott, Giants (34-24-36), and Joe Moore, Giants (35).

American League Selections

Selected by Manager Joe McCarthy of the world champion New York Yankees, who will pilot the American league team by virtue of having led his club to its league title last year, and whose picks were based on suggestions from the other seven managers, the squad lines up thus:

Pitchers—Vernon Gomez, New York; Lefty Grove, Boston; Mel Harder, Cleveland; Wes Ferrell, Washington; Monty Stratton, Chicago, and Tommy Bridges, Detroit.

Catchers—Bill Dickey, New York; Rick Ferrell, Washington, and Luke Sewell, Chicago.

Infielders—Lou Gehrig and Bob Rolfe, New York; Jimmy Foxx and Managed Joe Cronin, Boston; Charley Gehringer and Hank Greenberg, Detroit; Harlond Clift, St. Louis, and Buddy Myer, Washington.

Outfielders—Earl Averill, Cleveland; Roy (Beau) Bell, St. Louis; Roger Cramer, Boston; Joe DiMaggia, New York; Wally Moses, Philadelphia, and Gerald Walker, Detroit.

Honor Our Heroic Dead

Mr. Editor: Already, at leave five of the brave men, natives of our county who have gone into the war, have fallen heroically upon the battlefield, fighting for our nation and its liberties. The remains of two of them now lie in Ever Green cemetery.

These facts have naturally suggested the idea of erecting a monument to their memory. It appears to me that there are considerations, pertinent to the subject rising above all individual predelections.

Let there be a selection made of an eligible site and commodious ground in Ever Green cemetery, and in the centre let there be erected a handsome and imposing shaft of marble, around which shall be interred the remains, and upon which shall be inscribed the names of all the glorious dead, native to or citizens of our county, who die in the defense of the nation in this momentous struggle.

Yours respectfully,
D. McConaughy.

A CHIMNEY BAT AT NOON

Today I saw a curious sight,
A bat, that only flies at night,
Abroad a-wing at noon-time!
A bat, that mortals seldom see,
Less prisoned in a room it be,
Except at silver moon time.
"What is that curious thing," said I,
"That so uncertain seems to fly?
'Tis neither quail nor plover.
I've never seen a bird by day
In such a strange, bewildered way
Attempt to get to cover."
"Why, that's a bat!" my comrade said,
"That's turned too early out of bed
Or one that's late retiring.
Perhaps he's been upon a spre
And knows his mate is anxiously
His whereabouts inquiring."
This is a changing world, we're told.
New ways are driving out the old,
A fact there's no denying.
There's little left that used to be,
But who'd have thought we'd live to see
A bat at noon-time flying?

THE CHIPMUNKS

"NOW," said the little man, Willy Nilly, "we must go and call on some animals. Let's park our automobile Two-Ways and the trailer near the woods."

"There's a pond over there, quack, quack," quacked Mrs. Quacko Duck. "It's a warm day and I think a swim would suit us beautifully."

"Quack, quack," agreed Mr.

Quacko Duck, "that's a good idea."

"Quack, quack, quack, quack," quacked the little ducks, "we'll duck under the water at once."

"There might be some berries in these parts," growled the cubs Jupiter and Blacky Bear. And the little cub Chubby added: "I'm always a good one to find berries."

"You take after me," said Jelly Bear.

"Or me," added Honey Bear.

"I could find some grubs, I think," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"I once took a very long cross-country run about these parts," barked Rip, the dog, "and I believe I hid an old bone near here."

"You'll find it, I'm sure of that," cackled Top Notch, the rooster. "Oh, I see some seeds that look good to eat."

"What a lovely lot of grass, baa, baa," bleated Sweet Face.

"Are you all still hungry after breakfast?" asked Willy Nilly.

"We want to swim and maybe, too, find a few weeds in the pond at which to nibble," quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"We're not exactly hungry," growled Jelly Bear. "We could just eat a little extra meal."

"All right," agreed Willy Nilly. "You all play around and I'll make a few calls. We'll meet here. I'm going to visit some chipmunks!"

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

THEY WEREN'T SOFTIES

TO THE one who thinks this world is going to the "bow-wows" I would suggest the reading of a good American history.

The men who braved the seas in their frail crafts, and stood stolid in face of stress, storms and heartaches—searching for new worlds to conquer—they were not softies!

The men who cleared the forests, built the railroads, and founded cities—the men who left their very life-blood upon the ground, as they pioneered westward in the covered wagons, they spent no time feeling sorry for themselves. They were no softies.

The men and women who sacrificed, braved danger, slept under the stars at night, and put their faith in a Divine Providence, were folk of stamina, courage, and spiritual background. They were builders of our heritage.

Can we fail a confused age in the face of such memories? Who are they who now would destroy our faith, our confidence, or our will to carry on their unfinished tasks?

The story of men and nations is one of ceaseless travail. To seek ease, to be content with "well enough," to leave the big and difficult jobs to others, is to own a soft heart and a flabby soul!

Only the soft and idle pity themselves. With problems to solve, with difficulties all about you, you have the challenge to win over them—to be somebody!

The great trouble with modern life is that it has been made too soft. We all need a new business of courage and the will to do, no matter how humble or difficult the doing may be.

Softies have never had their deeds recorded. They never did anything to record.

There are enough brave men and women now in the world to work out all our problems. The best is yet to come!

Let college graduates take note.

FLAME TRAIL

By MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Just as Ted Gaynor is desperately about to set a forest fire to get a job, Kay Crandon stops him, likes his looks, gives him a place at the Lazy Nine. When her ranch house and barn burn, Josh Hastings, who wants to buy Lazy Nine and marry Kay, invites her to the Flying Six. She refuses, distrusting him, but young sister Babs and Aunt Kate go. Ted tells Kay Hastings is "a snake." The insurance money, which Kay planned to use for rebuilding, has to go on the mortgage. It's a blow, but Kay recovers when Ted stirs the outfit to cut its own lumber and rebuild without pay.

Chapter 11

Kay Talks Too Freely

Kay held Ted back as the others entered the mess shack.

"I brought you this," she said, suddenly shy at the look in his eyes, as he gazed inquiringly at her. She unbuckled a cartridge-studded belt with a swinging gun, and handed it to him.

"You said you'd sold yours," she explained simply. 'This was one of Dad's. I'd like to have you have it."

A huskiness came into Ted's throat as he tried to thank her, but she hurried in without waiting for him to voice his feelings.

By the time Kay got back to her cabin, the bitter blow of the morning seemed nothing more than a joke. It would be a great relief to have the $10,000 insurance money paid off on the mortgage, and she'd have her house and barn into the bargain.

A sudden impulse decided her to go over and tell Aunt Kate and Babs about it, and she turned down to the corral to get Flicker.

"Won't Josh Hastings be mad, Flicks?" she gloated, with a triumphant laugh. "If he did have anything to do with the fire, he's had his trouble for nothing."

Planning how she could arrange to get Aunt Kate and Babs home as soon as possible so as not to be under any greater obligation than she could help to Josh Hastings, Kay decided to get the boys to throw up an addition to her cabin the first thing so that they could all fit into it, while the building was going on.

Ted Gaynor had gone off right after lunch, and was planning to bring his mother and sister back within two or three days.

"It'll be no end of fun, Flicks," she murmmured with sparkling eyes and a heightened color as her mind dwelt on Ted Gaynor. "We'll all be regular pioneers, and live just as they did in the early days."

Her mind full of schemes and plans for the future, Kay covered the 10 miles to the Flying Six in what seemed no time at all, and came trotting up to the ranch house to find Aunt Kate dozing on the porch in the sunshine.

'There's A Fine Man!'

"Hello there!"

Aunt Kate awoke with a start at Kay's call.

"Well, it's about time you were coming over to see how I was getting on," she grumbled, but the affectionate welcome in her eyes belied her querulous greeting. "Come up here and give an account of yourself."

Kay dismounted and ran up the steps, looking about with an investigating eye to see if there were any signs of Josh Hastings. She was torn between the hope of getting away without seeing him, and the mischievous desire to flaunt her new plan before him.

"I suppose Babs isn't home from school yet," Kay observed, as she kissed her aunt. "I was so upset last night that I'm afraid I didn't give you a very cordial welcome," she added apologetically.

"Made me feel about as welcome as a pole cat!" Aunt Kate was never one to mince words. "But I didn't hold it up against you, considerin' the circumstances. Luckily Josh Hastings did the welcomin' for you. There's a fine man for you!" She shot Kay a quick shrewd look out of her bright black eyes.

"It was good of him to step into the breach the way he did," Kay answered evasively. "Is he back from town yet?"

"How'd you know he went to town?"

Before Kay had a chance to answer, a deep bass "Hello!" sounded from the direction of the corral, and the next minute Josh Hastings rounded the corner of the porch.

"Hello, there!" There was nothing in his greeting to indicate whether he had overheard Kay's tirade against him. He came up on the porch and held out his hand, which Kay was reluctantly forced to take. "You were sure in a hurry the last time I saw you," he added. "Had some bad news?"

"It seemed like mighty bad news then," Kay answered, "but now I see it in a different light. It's opened up all sorts of possibilities."

"Sensible girl," he commented. "So you've come over about the offer I made? Well, I'm standing right behind it."

"Oh, no," Kay answered sewetly. "I've no more intention of selling than I ever had. I just came over to see Aunt Kate."

There was a moment's pause. As Kay glanced innocently up at him, she could see the natural flush in his face deepen. That was the only evidence of surprise he gave, but his blue eyes narrowed.

"No intention of selling, eh?" he echoed. "Just how are you planning to rebuild, without your insurance?"

"The same way the pioneers did," Kay answered easily, thoroughly enjoying herself. "There're plenty of trees to get lumber from, and we've plenty of labor to do the job."

"Who put that scheme in your head?" he demanded brusquely, cutting short Aunt Kate's exclamation of surprise. "I never heard anything so crazy!"

A shade of doubt crept into Aunt Kate's look of interest at this sweeping disapproval of Kay's plans.

"I hope it isn't crazy," Kay answered with exasperating calmness. "None of us think it is. But anyway we're going to try it.'

"The whole idea's as wild as a locoed coyote!" He turned to Aunt Kate, "Can't you stop Kay from throwing away what little money she has on such a crazy plan?"

Aunt Kate looked from one to the other, her eyes squinted in her wrinkled face. 'I don't quite make out what it's all about."

"It boils down to this," Josh Hastings broke in impatiently without giving Kay a chance to answer. "The insurance money has to go toward paying off the mortgage, so Kay has nothing to rebuild with. I've made her a generous cash offer to take the whole ranch off her hands, so that she'll have a neat little nest egg to live on instead of ruining herself and losing the ranch into the bargain. And here she comes across with a wild-cat scheme to rebuild without any money."

"That does seem kind of foolish," Aunt Kate agreed. "You'd better not be so hasty, Kay."

Plenty Of Trees, Eh?'

"There's really nothing to discuss," Kay tried to keep her temper at this unfair attempt of Josh Hastings to win Aunt Kate over to his side. "It's all decided. The first thing I'm going to do is to build an addition to the cabin, so you and Babs can come home." She turned to Aunt Kate, who looked none too pleased.

"Don't you agree to any such thing," Miss Crandon." Hastings swung abruptly from Kay to Aunt Kate. "You stay right here until Kay comes to her senses." He paused, and stared reflectively into the distance. "Plenty of trees, are there?' he murmured half to himself, fixing Kay with his cold blue stare. "Just where are all these trees of yours?"

Kay was aware of a sudden gone feeling in the pit of her stomach. What fool she'd been to talk so much until she'd made sure of those few acres of timber on Old Man Warren's ridge! Trying hard to made her voice casual, she sought to undo her indiscretion.

"There's a lot of timber back of our north range," she answered vaguely, adding with spirited sarcasm in the hope of diverting his mind from its present train of thought, "We haven't begun to cut yet, naturally!"

"Some haul you'll have from the north range," Hastings observed with satisfaction. "And I can't seem to remember much big timber up that direction anyway." He gave a shrewd chuckel and added tolerantly, "Well I reckon you'll have to make a try at it before you'll be satisfied."

Kay's premonition of trouble, instead of being dispelled by the change of attitude was greatly strengthened! There wasn't a minute to waste! She must get in to Old Man Warren at once and get an option on that land! Even though she hadn't mentioned her intention to buy that up, Josh Hastings could easily reason it out for himself that that was the only available timberland for her to get.

She slipped down from the porch rail, where she had been perched beside Aunt Kate. "I'm afraid I can't wait for Babs to get home from school." It was all she could do to keep her voice calm and unhurried. "I promised I'd be right back."

"Got to get started cutting down that timber?" It was Josh Hastings' turn to be sarcastic.

"Not quite yet." Kay's effort at an easy laugh wasn't any too successful, as she bent down to kiss Aunt Kate. "There's no such terrible rush." She hoped he couldn't hear the pounding of her heart which drummed in her own ears. She must get away now, at once, and get hold of Old Man Warren before it occurred to Hastings to try to block her!

"Wait a minute," Josh Hastings put a detaining hand on her arm.

Racing to Old Man Warren's tomorrow, Kay is intercepted.

Flashes of Life

LOOKS HERE, GOES THERE

Chicago—Karl P. Schmidt, of the field museum of natural history, has received a rattlesnake that looks one way but goes another. Known as a "sidewinder," the reptile rolls—not wriggles—east when facing north, south when facing east, and so on. It is one of 500 specimens collected from the southwestern desert area, Schmidt said.

GRANDMOTHER CAN HELP

Erwin, N. C.—Mrs. Dora Odom Hobbs became a grandmother at 32 when her 17-year-old daughter, Mrs. Calypso Hobbs Stewart, gave birth to a son. Mrs. Hobbs' mother, now a great-grandmother, is only 56.

COSTLY WEAKNESS

Los Angeles—But for a human weakness Glen Shafer, 28, might be free. Police Sergeant R. A. Wingaard said he found Shafer finishing up a pumpkin pie when he entered the store on a citizen's tip. Shafer was booked on suspicion of burglary. "I could have been long gone," he moaned, "if I hadn't happened to see that darned pie."

HE'S CAREFUL NOW

York, Neb.—Clarence Miller, a produce company employe, used a sledge to open a box. He didn't know it contained dynamite until the cover was knocked off. An explosives expert said the dynamite was 20 years old and "probably wouldn't have exploded anyway," but Miller handled with care a second box he discovered.

GRANTED USE OF FIRE PLUGS

Philadelphia, June 28 (AP).—Captain Franklin Luckman found five boys parading in front of his police station carrying cards on which was lettered "Strike" and "We want the use of fire plugs." The Captain agreed that a little water from sprinklers would help combat the warm weather and promised to negotiate a settlement.

KATHARINE BRUSH RELATES THE FACTS:

BANG! A TIRE BLEW OUT—ONE LITTLE "DEB" IS WISER AND SAFER

KATHARINE BRUSH—Celebrated Author of "Young Man of Manhattan" and Other Best Sellers

The Girl Behind The Wheel Might Have Been Your Daughter... Read Her Exciting Adventure

EVERY day you see girls like Helen Jean Talbot whizzing along in expensive cars. Helen Jean is a pert little debutante of fashionable Grosse Point, Michigan, who dances all the latest steps, wears the latest clothes, and drives her car just as well as any man.

On this particular summer day, Jean was clipping off the miles on the road from Lansing to Flint. Judging her distance carefully, Jean swung the car out in the fast lane of traffic to pass the car in front. And then things began to happen. Above the contented purr of her powerful motor burst the ear-splitting "BANG" of a blow-out. The big sedan zig-zagged. The driver of the car which she had passed was able to stop short. But all that separated Jean's car from a yawning ditch were a few scant inches of crumbling earth.

Of course, Jean loves a thrill—but as she said later, this was one too many for her. That's why, today, Jean's car is equipped with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns with Golden Ply blow-out protection.

Goodrich Aids Motorists

I'm a writer, not a mechanic, but I'm interested enough in my own safety to find out something about blow-out protection. And here's what I discovered:

Goodrich engineers saw the need for a safer tire as driving speeds increased. As a result, they invented the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific blowout-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. Of course, no other tire in the world but the Goodrich Safety Silvertown has this life-saving invention. In view of the fact that I have always felt that it's much better to be safe than sorry, I would suggest that you equip your car with Golden Ply Silvertowns. Tomorrow isn't a bit too soon. And imagine! You pay no price premium for these super-quality tires.

NEWS NOTES

By The Rambling Reporter

PROTESTANT churches of Gettysburg ended individual Sunday evening services for the summer months last evening. Beginning next Sunday evening the plan inaugurated last summer will be followed and the congregations of the local churches will gather weekly for union evening services on Gettysburg college campus.

Pastors of the cooperating churches will alternate as the preachers for the services to be held through July and August at 6:30 o'clock each Sunday evening. Early announcements named the Rev. Dwight F. Putman, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, as the speaker for next Sunday evening.

Members of the county registration commission are having their troubles with the permanent registration of voters in Adams county—and more difficulties appear to be ahead on Election Day.

Last Thursday, registrars reported some electors resentful toward the new "red tape" connected with voting. Several instances were told where persons made a trip to the polling places for the sole purpose of announcing that they had lived in the districts all their lives, always paid their taxes and intend to keep on voting in September and November—without bothering to register.

The new act makes personal registration of each voter a prerequisite to casting ballots in the fall elections.

OTHER registrars found some of of their fair customers—and not a few of the other sex—unwilling to announce the date of their birth and reveal their age. Some registrars solved the situation by recording "over 21," which has been accepted by the commission as satisfactory. In general, Clerk Winfield G. Horner has found that the registrars did a "pretty good job."

Crops on county farms are in general much above the average this season. Hay making, the task engaged in by most county farmers for the last week, has found good stands of timothy and clover as the result of the wet weather of the last six weeks. Corn is growing nicely.

WHEAT harvest will step into full swing this week as soon as the weather permits. Many farmers "opened up" their wheat fields Saturday so that a good start could be made this morning with the binder. Rains last evening and today halted the work temporarily.

Rains of the last month have made long straw and in many sections of the county the heads are said to be well filled. Fly has caused some damage to the stalks in some parts of the county. One or two reports have been received of wheat being threshed and a fair yield secured.

These hot sultry days are bringing to the ears of borough councilmen anew queries of what is being done about more sanitary collection of garbage in Gettysburg. High-smelling, open, filthy wagons in use here now are being condemned by visitors and residents alike. State health officials have cited them as an important part of the mosquito eradication program here.

POTATOES, too, are doing well. Clerk of the courts Roy D. Renner reports that the tubers in his plot at Littlestown have grown so rapidly that he has had to purchase vacant lots on both sides of the "patch" to provide room for the expanding "spuds."

First new potatoes appeared on market Saturday and brought high prices. Growers are fearing low prices with the large crop that is expected here.

Rocky Grove school house in Straban township is well hidden from the public eye. Located on no public high or by-way, visitosr just "go to the end of the road and turn left" to get there.
